1010 Policy Development and Approval

In order for the business of the Association to have continuity over time, and for the Board of Directors to govern the Association, it is necessary to create policies.

1. Any member of the Association, the Board or any staff member may recommend a policy or policy revision for Board consideration. Policies should have a title and a concise statement of purpose. Written drafts should be given to the Board prior to the first Board meeting at which considered.
2. Approval of new or revised policy will be in two steps: review and final approval. Between the steps there will be a period for Board input.
3. Proposed policies or revisions should be referred to the relevant committees, groups or staff for input prior to consideration by the Board, and always before final approval.
4. After the new or revised policy has been reviewed by relevant committees and other interested parties, the Board will review the policy and comments and suggested revisions and take one or more of the following steps:
 - A) Reject
 - B) Revise
 - C) Table for further work or consideration (which may be specified)
 - D) Approve
5. In the case of 4 A-C above, a schedule will be developed for final outcome of the proposed policy.
6. The President-Elect and the Parliamentarian will review Policies and Procedures by June 30 of each year and prepare any necessary updates for the Late Summer/Fall meeting. Draft policy updates may be submitted by any Board member.
7. Policies will be adopted by a simple majority vote of the Board.

1020 Classes of Rules

WHEREAS, by their nature, rules of operation are distinguished by such attributes as the importance of their subject matter, the scope of their coverage, and the authority necessary to create or change them,

THEREFORE, be it resolved by the Board of Directors that the following categories will serve as guidelines for our operation:

1. Bylaw:

As defined in the Association bylaws. Bylaws can only be approved by a vote of the Association.

2. Policy:

Policies address issues of importance that are wide in scope and/or of great interest to the Association at large. Policies are created by the Board. (Policy 1010)

3. Procedure:

A procedure is established by a committee or a staff person and documents the process for some internal business below the level of policies. Procedures do not require approval by the Board, yet may benefit from Board input.

1100 Membership

WABE Membership is included in registration for the Annual Conference. Non-members may participate in all WABE events. Individuals may become members of WABE for a $40 fee. Membership will expire the day before the Annual Conference regardless of when the fee was paid. Membership may be renewed either by attending the Annual Conference or paying $40.

1120 Board Member Rights and Responsibilities

1. Members of the Board of Directors have the right to access WABE records, mailing lists, electronic and print archives for purposes of carrying out WABE business.
2. Members of the Board of Directors are encouraged to promote the Mission and Vision of WABE whenever possible through their professional contacts.
3. Board members are expected to attend and participate in support tasks at the Annual Conference. Board members MAY attend other WABE events under the condition that they agree to participate in support tasks. All registration, travel and per diem costs will be paid by WABE.
4. If a Board member makes a presentation to promote WABE and WABE Mission at another organization's event, WABE will pay travel expenses. The Board member will petition the Board for approval. The Board member will seek to have the other organization provide free registration.

1130 Conflict of Interest

1. A Member of the Board of Directors may not participate in a discussion or vote on a question concerning a decision in which they personally, their business operations, their business partners or their family might benefit financially.
2. Members of the Board of Directors may not use WABE resources such as mailing lists, website or newsletter for their personal or business gain.
3. Members of the Board of Directors may contract with WABE for services delivered as long as the above conditions of this Policy are met.

Rules of Order for E-mail Meetings

As the following is limited, these guidelines should be supplemented by related material in the current edition of Robert's Rules, indicated by the references in the section headings below.

Quorum [Robert's (S3, S39)]. For an e-mail message to be part of a meeting, it must be sent to all members (with the exception of returned ballots). Other messages may be sent for caucusing or other off-line discussion, but these are not officially part of the meeting.

For a vote to be valid in the context of an e-mail meeting, a quorum of ballots must be returned. Unless otherwise provided for, this quorum is one half. This need for a vote quorum results from the fact that it is harder to know who is following an e-mail meeting than who is attending a face-to-face meeting; hence, the concept of a quorum based on attendance is less applicable to e-mail meetings.

An equipment malfunction among the membership that significantly interferes with reading, writing, or delivering e-mail requires the chair to recess or adjourn the meeting without a vote. E-mail meetings shall not be held when equipment malfunction is a significant hindrance.

Call to order [Robert's (S3)]. An e-mail meeting is called to order with a message from the chair containing a "subject" (or equivalent) line stating "Call to order" and a body beginning with "The e-mail meeting will come to order."

The call-to-order message should explain which meeting has been called to order, because unlike attendees at ordinary meetings, members may be participating in multiple simultaneous e-mail meetings.

Minutes [Robert's (S3)]. Minutes consist of the full transcript of the meeting, comprising all of the e-mail messages that were part of it. Their accuracy can usually be assumed, so minutes need not be read or approved in e-mail meetings.

Floor [Robert's (S3)]. In face-to-face meetings, obtaining the floor prevents more than one person from speaking at the same time and gives various members a chance to be heard. Obtaining the floor is typically an arbitration process and is unnecessary in e-mail meetings because messages can be sent simultaneously by different members. In an e-mail meeting, the floor is trivially and implicitly obtained simply by sending an e-mail message to the membership, and rules of order for obtaining the floor are generally unnecessary.

Voting [Robert's (S4)]. When issues are decided by a vote, all voters may have to be present in the same room at the same time, as when secret ballots must be counted in the presence of the membership. However, a vote by e-mail shall be acceptable unless explicitly disallowed. To conduct an e-mail vote, a ballot is sent to the voting membership stating exactly what is to be voted on and containing at the beginning a clearly designated place for the member to mark a vote. The subject line (or equivalent) should contain the term "ballot."

The simplest kind of vote is the consensus vote. The ballot specifies that only nay votes need be returned. No nay votes means the measure is approved, so no vote quorum applies.

If a vote is to be counted, the ballot should clearly designate the choices. Here are two hypothetical examples:

I vote _____ (fill in "yes," "no," or leave blank).

I vote for _____ (fill in "Jones," "Miller," "Wang," or leave blank).

In a verbose public vote, each voter e-mails a completed ballot to all members. In a terse public vote, completed ballots are returned to the sender. Voting may be conducted by the chair, the secretary, or the voting commissioner. The votes for each option are tabulated to produce a report that accompanies the announcement of the result. This report is sent after a deadline (by default, one full business day after ballot distribution). Ballots returned after the deadline but received before the report is sent are valid votes and must be included in the report.

Secret balloting may be conducted by the voting commissioner, who must be trusted to maintain the confidentiality of the ballots and to count them reliably. Alternatively, special software can be used for balloting, or a brief, appropriately scheduled face-to-face balloting session may be needed.

Voting commissioner [Robert's (S46)]. Voting in e-mail meetings can be more complex than in face-to-face meetings, so it may be desirable to establish the office of voting commissioner. This person distributes ballots, receives and counts returned ballots, and announces results. The voting commissioner's integrity must be trusted if the office is to be a help rather than a hindrance to the conduct of the meeting.

2. In lieu of ballots emailed to each Board member, votes not requiring confidentiality may be held electronically with tools such as Doodle or other.

1142 Board Minutes

1. Minutes for live and electronic meetings will be recorded by the Secretary.

People may nominate themselves or a colleague, as long as they are current members of WABE. Nominations must be sent to the Parliamentarian by two weeks prior to the conference.
4. Ballots will be prepared and color coded by region and distributed at registration (i.e. Northwest Region ballot, Northeast Region ballot; Southwest Region ballot; Southeast Region ballot).
